

Top 5 PAC Myths

- 1) Only the people that help or go to the meetings regularly are considered the PAC.

Nope! If you are the parent or the guardian of a child that attends Clayburn, you are a member of the PAC and your opinion counts!!

- 2) If I show up at a meeting I will have to help with fundraising.

Na-ah! Our fundraisers are set in the spring and we really only do minimal fundraising. If you don't have time or don't want to help, then don't!

- 3) I can only participate if I have time free during the day.

No! Any help is very much appreciated and there are a few areas that don't require daytime availability. If you want to help but don't have much free time, attend the evening meetings (only 8 during the school year...come when you can!!)

- 4) The PAC is only made up of moms.

No way!! Our dads are a valuable part of our school community and we have a great group that help out at events and attend the meetings.

- 5) If I offer to help out I will be committed for the entire year.

Negative!! Our group is pretty casual...we all work at least part time and our philosophy is that our volunteer time has to fit into our already crazy busy lives. We all want to be relevant and intentional in the lives of our kids, but we don't want to overextend ourselves. We have a variety of areas that have a group of people on a list, and they only come if they are free.

Our final meeting of the year is this coming Tuesday, June 14th. We'll be voting in the executive for the 2016/2017 school year. So far we have some amazing people willing to take on most of the positions but we are still in need of a PAC secretary. This commitment is very low and can be done in the evenings or while you are at home...attend the 8 meetings (or as many as you can), take notes, print 'em off, monitor the PAC email account. Can you see yourself helping out in this way? Please email the PAC at clayburnpac@gmail.com if you have questions or would like to fill this need!!

Blessings to you!!
